Many guests have returned year after year to La Paz following this introduction to horseback riding. Some have even participated in one of the long Andalusia trails that are organized by us as well. The good news: You only ride at walk or canter. Our way of riding, the Doma Vaquera is the similar style of the western riding - very comfortable for horse and rider while hacking out. The very comfortable Spanish saddles give you a firm seat. Maybe you can not impress an experienced rider after this one week, but you have had a lot of fun and what is most important, you will have gained faith and confidence on horseback!

Before you mount your horse on the first day the basics are covered. You get an introduction about the general handling of horses. How you approach a horse to gain its trust; how it reacts. The saddles are shown and explained to you. Then you're ready to mount your horse for the first time and you will be surprised that it does not take so much to communicate with horses. After a few time you get a feeling for the basic aids. How and why a horse turns in different directions... Now you are ready to discover the surroundings of the ranch on easy trails. Out in the countryside you are suddenly a lot more relaxed. You enjoy the beautiful scenery and learn very easily how to go with the movements of your horse.

Ride up the mountain to a lookout and then down the other side and you will know how a horse moves. Every day the rides are extended and become more interesting. The trails are chosen according to your skills and confidence. But there is no need to worry - your horse also looks after you, forgiving small mistakes.

Surely after a few rides you feel firm enough to try a first canter on easy way – the reins in one hand you have the other free to hold the mane...

Also for all riders who are a bit afraid or insecure or those with some bad experience in the past this program is ideal to get some confidence in a small group with experienced horses.

If you already have some experience riding in the country but like to start it slowly you can change in another riding group when you feel save for it (without any price difference)

(Subject to modifications)
